This book includes the complete companion short story, The Journal of Sharise Sills. From the author: If you have read any of my other books, please note that this story is neither paranormal nor science fiction. It is a drama about human trafficking. The main characters in the story just happen to live on the spectrum. Fear is something that can build up slowly. It can begin as a tiny spark that is almost unnoticeable. It may continue to slowly grow until a small flame sends quick slicing cuts somewhere deep inside you. The fear may spread, up from your gut and into your throat until the flame begins to overwhelm you. First there is confusion and then denial and excuses. Finally there is the realization that you are not dreaming and something horrible is happening. You are living in the moment of panic. The story begins with mildly autistic Gavin Hawkins, attending High School in Madison County, Alabama. After a panic meltdown, Gavin is assigned to a newly formed class. It is there where he meets Amy Harrison. Amy is much further along on the spectrum. Gavin lovingly refers to Amy as Indigo, referring to his imaginary positioning of Amy on the color spectrum. Amy doesn t mind the private pet nickname since Amy loves the color indigo. It doesn t take Amy and Gavin long to become close friends. Gavin s naturally obsessive nature enables him to focus on things that he loves, like science and music. Gavin s cousin Billy gets...
